Veterans Day events honor & remember community's veterans

By Parker Minor

The Fallen Soldiers March, formed by the (FSM) organization, is a yearly, traditional march on Veterans Day. The 8th annual FSM group of marchers walked from downtown Nashville, starting at the steps of Legislative Plaza in Nashville, to the Wilson County Veterans Memorial in Lebanon. The 32 mile walk began at 5:10 a.m. and ended around 5 p.m on Veterans Day.

The Fallen Soldiers March arrived in Mt. Juliet, around noon on Friday, at Needhams Nursery for one of their traditional stops every year on Veterans Day. Tom Needham, a long time supporter of the FSM, always provides for this organization. This year Needham’s Nursery provided Mr. Juliet’s very own Hoxoston’s catered lunch for all FSM walkers and support personnel.

The group of marchers then headed to their next destination step in Mt. Juliet at West Elementary School where walkers were greeted by students, teachers, and even Nashville Predator’s mascot, Gnash!

Wilson County veterans, and resident, Dwayne Wright, and his 11 year old son, Cooper, a fifth grader who attends West Elementary School, participated in the FSM.

Along with the Fallen Soldiers March, Ellie D. Patton Elementary School was also one of many schools participating in honoring our nation’s veterans.

Officials from the Wilson County School system attended the program event that teachers and staff put together for special veterans guests of the students.

Veterans were honored and given a special tribute by elementary students before attending a Veterans Day breakfast in honor of their service to our country.

Nashville Predator’s Gnash was sent out to West Elementary School in Mt. Juliet to support of the Fallen Soldiers Veterans Day March. Gulf War Army Veteran and Wilson County native, Dwayne Wright, is pictured with Gnash and his son, Cooper. The Nashville Predators are a proud sponsor of the Fallen Soldiers March organization. Photo submitted.

Students at Stoner Creek Elementary School participated in a program tribute to veterans last Friday morning in honor. Photo submitted.

Stoner Creek Elementary staff held up a sign that reads “Super Hero Parking Only” for veterans. Photo submitted.
