The City of Mt. Juliet is again partnering with Kroger Health to provide free drive-thru COVID-19 testing this week. The event will take place from May 19 to May 21, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., in the parking lot of Mt. Juliet Middle School.

People seeking a test will use a virtual screening tool based on the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidance. Individuals who don’t have symptoms and anyone with health concerns are eligible for testing.

According to City Manager Kenny Martin, more than 700 people turned out during the three-day event. He hopes that even more people will come out and get tested this week. Martin also said that because they are partnering with Kroger, there is no cost to the county or city.

Rainey has been principal of Mt. Juliet High School for two years, taking over after longtime principal Mel Brown retired in 2018. She was previously principal at Mt. Juliet Middle School. suffering the effects of the March tornado and the COVID-19 pandemic. Therefore, Memorial Day Weekend 2020 will only be a “Community Display” of the American Flag.

Nevertheless, the organization wants citizens to still visit the field at the Jones Family Park. They appreciate the financial support that previous businesses and individual sponsors have contributed to the display.

USDA approves Wilson County for Emergency Conservation Program

Staff Reports

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has recently authorized Wilson County FSA Committee to begin accepting applications for emergency farmland clean-up assistance to address damage caused to farmland from the tornado that occurred on April 25, 2020, and the May 3, 2020, derecho (Straight-Line-Wind). Applications may be filed at the local County FSA Office from May 18 through June 18, 2020.

Eligible producers will be able to make ECP applications to remove farmland debris and to restore fences used to enclose eligible livestock used for food and fiber.

For land to be eligible, the natural disaster must have damaged existing conservation measures that:

•if untreated will impair or endanger the land;
•materially affect the land’s productive capacity;
•represent unusual damage that is not likely to recur frequently in the same area; and
•would be so costly to repair that federal assistance is or will be required to return the land to productive agricultural use; therefore, applicants must have sustained a minimum of $1,000 of eligible damage.

To be eligible for assistance, practices must not be started until all of the following are met:

•an application for cost-share assistance has been filed

•USDA employee has conducted an onsite inspection

•USDA has completed a technical needs determination.

•USDA has completed an Environmental Compliance Evaluation

In certain instances, the County Committee may grant relief on a case-by-case basis for those producers who had to take immediate steps to prevent further losses.

Producers qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost share levels not to exceed 75% of their out of pocket expenses. Limited resources, as well as certain socially disadvantaged and beginning farmers and ranchers, may qualify for up to 90% cost share.

Producers need to be aware that although the county office may accept requests and conduct field visits, this does not imply that cost share assistance will be made available.

Due to recent public health concerns, USDA Service Centers are engaging visitors by phone appointment only. You can call 615-444-1890, Extension 2 to conduct business by phone and mail.

At Carrick Glen Senior Living Community, we limited visitors before limited visitation was mandated; we quarantined before quarantines were required; we deep cleaned before deep cleaning was recommended. Now, we celebrate the successful completion of testing residents and staff for the coronavirus.

With new ways to communicate, new activities and new clinical operations, Carrick Glen Senior Living Community celebrates a future of safe and secure residents, healthy lifestyles and connected community.
WCS director named school nutrition award winner

Melody Turner, school nutrition director for Wilson County Schools, has been selected as Tennessee’s School Nutrition Director of the Year. She was set to be honored at the Tennessee School Nutrition Association’s annual conference in June and SNA’s annual national conference in July. However, both conferences have been canceled due to COVID-19 restrictions.

Tennessee School Nutrition Association (TSNA) has announced state award winners, recognizing an exceptional school nutrition employee, manager and director. While the nomination process began before COVID-19 school closures, Tennessee SNA recognizes the widespread efforts of school nutrition professionals across the state, working on the front lines to ensure needy students have access to healthy meals during the pandemic. “School nutrition professionals have always played such an important role in student success, providing nutritious meals to fuel their busy days and a warm, welcoming cafeteria environment,” said Vonda Bradford, TSNA president.

She continued, “But in the midst of COVID-19 school closures, these women and men have willingly taken on the role of front line heroes. The dedication and passion of these award winners is a testament to the work being done by school nutrition professionals across our state.”

Ultimately 41 teachers from losing their jobs. Money will be transferred from the Employee Health Insurance Fund to fund the cost of 95 teacher assistants, pay stipends to mentors, tech coaches and portfolio reviewers.

The purchasing of the English Language Arts textbooks will be delayed until the 2021-2022 school year, which saves $1.2 million. However, all the textbooks will have to be purchased the following year with a much bigger expenditure of $3.5 million.

The balancing of this budget cannot provide the funding of the Adult High School and Adult Basic Education programs. Hall will present to Wilson County Mayor Randall Hutto and the Wilson County Commission a request to fund these through the county’s General Fund.

Hall also clarified that the sales tax increase for teacher raises will still be earmarked for such purpose and will be adjusted in May 2021.

This budget proposal will be presented to the Wilson County Joint Education and Budget Committee meeting on Thursday, May 22.

Do you believe in hope?

Do you ever read the Bible and ask yourself if you really believe it? If you believe that God can be trusted? Or if you believe in hope? I do. You might be wondering how a pastor can wrestle with those things, but I think they’re important questions for Jesus followers to ask ourselves every now and then.

As Christians, do we believe the hope we speak of? I mean really believe it. And I think we do. Or at least I think we really want to. Hope can be a confusing thing because we hope for things all the time. I hope people don’t get sick from the coronavirus. I hope that during quarantine my gray hair wouldn’t grow in as fast as it normally does, but that kind of hope is more like wishful thinking. It’s wanting something good to happen, or maybe hoping that something bad will not happen. Our hope in God is so much different, so much bigger than that. Hope in God is established because of God’s great love and mercy for all people. God wants everyone to know Him and live in a relationship with Him, so God gave all of us the most beautiful gift. The gift of a living hope through the death and resurrection of his son, Jesus. That means that what God did for Jesus, God does for each and every one of us. Yes, even you. God desires to give all of us the gift of a living hope in Him, so God gave all of us the most beautiful gift. The gift of a living hope through the death and resurrection of his son, Jesus. That means that what God did for Jesus, God does for each and every one of us.

Summer heat dangers

Kenny Martin
City Manager
Mt. Juliet, TN

With summer just around the corner, there is no better time to remind everyone of the importance of not leaving any child, senior citizen or pet unattended in an automobile. Temperatures inside an automobile can reach temperatures of up to 140 degrees in a matter of minutes. As you can tell from recent news stories and countless tragedies across the country, these tragedies just don’t happen to irresponsible parents, these tragedies can happen to anyone. Even caregivers and parents with the best of intentions can fail victim to these tragedies. With our busy and hectic lives, this can happen much easier than most truly realize.

It also is never a good idea to leave pets, the elderly or children in unattended vehicles even when the vehicles are running and air conditioning operating. Assuming the air conditioning will continue to work while occupants are left unattended in an automobile is a dangerous practice that should never be attempted. The elderly, children and pets are prone to becoming overcome by rising temperatures inside closed automobiles and are often unable to seek help when needed. Unfortunately, the result can be heat stroke and even death. Not to mention leaving pets, the elderly and children in cars while running has created many accidents, injuries and even deaths over the years because of cars being put in gear intentionally or unintentionally.

I know most of you are saying, “I would never dream of doing such a thing or taking such a chance.” However, statistics show that each year far too many chances or oversights occur, causing serious injury and death to not only humans but pets as well. Even with the automobile’s windows down, temperatures can reach 125 degrees within 20 minutes.

Other dangers with summer heat and bright sunlight are sunburn, accidental burns and dehydration. Items within the automobile such as vinyl interior parts, metal interior parts and even leather can absorb the heat and sunlight, causing instant burns to unprotected body parts upon contact. Placing a car cover, window shades and even towels across your automobile can prevent such tragedies from occurring. Sunburn can be avoided by covering exposed parts of the body with clothing, shade or sun blocking lotions. Dehydration can be avoided by consuming lots of liquids, especially water, regularly.

Thirst is one indicator of dehydration but is not a warning sign. By the time you feel thirsty, you might already be dehydrated. Other symptoms of dehydration include but are not limited to the following:

• Feeling dizzy
• Having a dry or sticky mouth
• Producing less sweat
• Pale cold skin
• Disorientation
• Nausea and light headedness
• Producing less urine

And please don’t be fooled by cooler temperatures in the 70s and 80s. It doesn’t have to be in the 90s or 100-degree range to cause serious injury or death.

We must also do all we can to check in on the shut-ins, sick and elderly who live alone. These individuals can become overburdened with rising medical and utility costs, often finding themselves without air conditioning.

When bills are piling up, planning on what to cut from the budget can be tough when it comes to air conditioning in the middle of one of the hottest summers in recent memory. Think about it, what would you cut first? Would it be replacing or repairing the air conditioning, buying food, paying the house note, medical, water, phone, electric or other bills? We can’t overlook these fine people. Please keep them in your thoughts.

In closing, I know these seem like silly common-sense reminders. However, preventing and eliminating further suffering, injuries and deaths can never be overrated or overstated.

Gift of new life; the gift of eternal life. And our faith, our belief that all of that is true, is the anchor that holds us firm in that hope. Do we trust in that hope? It’s a question we should all ask ourselves over and over again. If we do, let us hold on as tight as we can to the knowledge that even though life is hard and we all feel pain and people fail us and we all see and face things that we can’t understand or explain, that God can be trusted and love does win out in the end.

So, “Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfector of our faith” (Hebrews 2.12). Let us be filled with love and mercy for all of God’s children and hold on to hope together. Let’s make the kingdom of heaven come alive on earth together, because holding on alone is too big and too difficult for any one of us. Even the One who promised is not singular — the one who is faithful is Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. Our hope is only sustainable together.

TN begins extended unemployment benefits program

Staff Reports

The Tennessee Department of Labor and Workforce Development (TDLWD) has completed building the third pandemic unemployment program provided for by the federal CARES Act signed into law by President Donald Trump.

TDLWD is now processing Pandemic Extended Unemployment Compensation (PEUC), in addition to Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA), and Federal Pandemic Unemployment Compensation (FPUC).

PEUC provides an additional 13 weeks of unemployment compensation to eligible claimants who:
• Have exhausted all rights to regular compensation under state or federal law with respect to a benefit year that ended on or after July 1, 2019;
• Have no rights to regular compensation with respect to a week under any other state unemployment compensation law or federal unemployment compensation law, or to compensation under any other federal law;
• Are not receiving compensation with respect to a week under the unemployment compensation law of Canada; and
• Are eligible and available to work.

Individuals who have exhausted their Tennessee Unemployment Compensation claim, or their benefit year has ended, need to refile to obtain the additional weeks of benefits provided through PEUC.

Claimants can re-file their claim by accessing their account on Tennessee’s workforce development website, wwwJobs4TN.gov.

The City of Mt. Juliet, Tennessee, hereby provides certain financial information for the Fiscal Year 2021 budget in accordance with the requirements of Tennessee Code Annotated Title 67 Chapter 50 Section 206. There will be a public hearing concerning the budget at City Hall located at 2425 N. Mt. Juliet Rd., Mt. Juliet, TN on June 8th at 6:15pm. All citizens are welcome to participate.

The budget and all supporting data are a public record and are available for public inspection by anyone at the office of the Chief Financial Officer.

My son has a cleft lip and palate. His surgeon mentioned that he will need to see an orthodontist.

When should he see you, Dr. Oxford?

Great question! Serving on the Vanderbilt Craniofacial and Cleft Lip and Palate Team has afforded me with a great opportunity to serve lots of kids like your son. There are several time points that are important for cleft lip and palate patients. Sometimes, a surgeon will need me to help as soon as 10 weeks old to help bring the lips together before surgery. The next phase that is needed is around 6-8 years old for expansion prior to bone graft surgery. Usually, the next time for orthodontics would be in the teenage years when the child is ready for full orthodontic treatment. I am happy to see your child anytime for a complimentary smile assessment and we can discuss his/her timing in more detail.

Department for connecting Kroger Health with Mt. Juliet for this opportunity for the citizens of our community," said Martin. “Increased testing opportunities are vital as we begin to get people back to work.”

Individuals must schedule an appointment via Kroger Health’s online portal at www.kroger-health.com/covidtesting/. Scheduling an appointment is required to receive a test.

Mt. Juliet Police Department and Kroger Health associates will be present to direct traffic to the designated testing area. Those arriving for a test should enter the school off of Woodridge Place. Windows should be up on all vehicles when in the testing area, and individuals need to have their photo ID ready.

“Kroger Health is proud to partner with the City of Mt. Juliet in this important effort to combat the COVID-19 pandemic,” said Colleen Lindholz, president of Kroger Health. “This aligns perfectly with our vision, which is to help people live healthier lives.”

This onsite testing is supported with the laboratory services provided by eTrueNorth, a contractor of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

“My family and I have loved the opportunities that Mt. Juliet has provided to us,” she said. “We have been welcomed with open arms and have loved every minute of our time with new friends and family.”

Though she has enjoyed her time in Mt. Juliet, Rainey looks forward to her new role with Collierville Schools. She looks forward to the challenge of helping students of all ages become the best they can be.

“The students and staff of Wilson County Schools are some of the finest that I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with,” said Rainey. “I will miss each and every one of them more than they will know. I will always keep ‘Bear Pride’ close to my heart.”

Beverly Sharpe, currently principal at West Wilson Middle School, has been named Rainey’s replacement. Sharpe’s replacement has not been announced.

Every year I get into the Donut Hole with my medication. I want a drug plan that does not include the donut hole.

I get this statement a lot when assisting people with their Medicare options. There is not a Medicare plan that you are not subject to entering the Donut Hole. It is important to know that all drug plans and Medicare Advantage plans that include drugs are based on your total drug costs. This includes the price you pay and what your plan pays for specific drugs. Entering the donut hole is based on the medication you are currently taking. This means that you cannot obtain a plan that does not include the donut hole. If you take preferred generic, maintenance drugs you may never enter the donut hole. But if you are taking higher tiered Preferred Brand Name drugs you have a greater chance of entering the donut hole each year.

We at IMS can assist you in navigating this process and find the best plan for you. Call us at 615-831-3800.

What is the most important secret to an enjoyable season with my pool?

Water chemistry, water chemistry, water chemistry! Take advantage of free water testing and quality chemicals from your local pool store. There is a great difference between wholesale chemicals and retail chemicals. Some are cheap for a reason. Ask your water specialist to explain the difference. Take 10 or 15 minutes with your pool each day and you will be pleasantly surprised at the ease of care.

As always, feel free to email us your questions for a personal response!

Study to determine rate of coronavirus infection in U.S. children

Researchers at Vanderbilt University Medical Center (VUMC) are leading a nationwide study to determine the rate of novel coronavirus infection in U.S. children and their families.

The study, named the HEROIS (Human Epidemiology and Response to SARS-CoV-2) study, was funded by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID). Its aim is to gain insight into how many children ages 1 to 21 have been infected, the percentage of those infected who develop symptoms of COVID-19 and any differences in immune responses to the virus between children and adults within the same household.

It will also examine whether infection rates differ between children who have asthma or other allergies and children who do not, including the impact of topical steroids used to treat asthma and allergies.

Across the globe, children have much less commonly developed severe COVID-19 compared to adults. But, according to Tina Hartert, MD, MPH, professor of Medicine in VUMC’s Division of Allergy, Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine and the lead investigator for the study, a lack of symptoms doesn’t necessarily offer knowledge into infection rates.

“It’s not known whether children are more resistant to the virus or whether they are infected by the virus just as frequently as adults but don’t get symptoms. One consistent trend recognized early in the pandemic was that children weren’t as often becoming critically ill compared with adults, but this doesn’t equate to children not getting infected,” said Hartert, also VUMC’s Vice President for Translational Research, director of the Center for Asthma Research and the Lulu H. Owen Professor of Medicine.

“Settling this debate will require large, high-quality population studies that include longitudinal sampling and test for the presence of antibodies in the blood as a marker of previous infection.”

The study will be conducted entirely remotely and will rapidly enroll 6,000 people from at least 2,000 families in 10 U.S. cities who are already participating in pediatric research studies funded by the National Institutes of Health.

Both healthy children and children with asthma will be included, and families will be followed for six months to determine who gets infected with the virus and whether the virus is then transmitted between family members.

Participating families will collect and mail in nasal swabs from each family member every two weeks for laboratory analysis, collect baseline stool swabs and complete online questionnaires about symptoms, social distancing practices, potential exposure to those who are sick and activities conducted outside the home.

In addition to biweekly sampling, if someone in the family shows symptoms of a viral illness, another questionnaire will help the family determine the likelihood that the illness is COVID-19. If COVID-19 is likely, families will collect additional nasal swabs from all members of the household and a stool sample from the symptomatic participant for lab analysis within 24 hours.

Families will also submit blood samples for antibody testing using a capillary blood self-collection device at two weeks, 18 weeks and 24 weeks following enrollment as well as three weeks after their first case of COVID-19, if applicable.

Aside from offering insight into transmission and infection rates among children with and without asthma, Hartert says the study will offer broader knowledge into the incidence of novel coronavirus infection across the U.S. population, spanning both children and adults. It will also provide answers regarding differences in immune response and novel coronavirus receptors on cells from the noses of children, adults and those with allergic asthma.

“So far, data on the extent of novel coronavirus infection in the U.S. population have been mostly limited to people who physically interact with the health care system: those who are tested — especially those who test positive — and those with severe disease. These data have provided us real-time guidance in a setting of limited test availability, but they don’t enable us to understand the full extent of infection in the entire population,” said Hartert.

“Such data will help fill this knowledge gap, aid in understanding why children less commonly develop severe infection and meaningfully inform public health interventions.”

TELLING TALES

The gang is all here

By Angel Kane
Wilson Living Magazine

My friends and I are in the almost “empty nest” stage of life. Our children are either in their final years of high school or have recently graduated and are moving on with their own lives.

And if I had to guess, I’d say the majority of us have not been handling this new stage of life very well.

One of my girlfriends summed it up perfectly when she said, “It’s like mourning a piece of your life you won’t ever get back. Having all the kids under one roof and being together 24/7 - those days are gone and no matter how hard you wish it were different, you just won’t ever get them back.”

Unless, of course ... a worldwide pandemic hits! When the world first went on lockdown, like everyone else, we went from a quiet, clean house of just three - my husband and I and our 17 year old son ... who basically had one foot out the door already - to a family five.

The gang was back together!

Our 20-year-old daughter, in the middle of sophomore year of college, was sent home and our 23 year old, who had been living in Nashville, returned home too, since everything was now officially closed. Our 17 year old came back from spring break and after that, had absolutely nowhere to go - school, football, and Sonic were all off limits.

And just like that, I got what I had wished for! Sort of...

Our almost empty nest that was clutter-free and consisted of jazz music by the fire in the evenings, as I read my book and loved on my dog, now consisted of three surly young adults, eating Doritos on my newly-purchased velour sofa, sucking up my WiFi and moaning about all the ways their lives were now ruined, as they stayed up all night watching reruns of “Grey’s Anatomy” together.

When the young adults came running home, so did the laundry, the dishes and the chaos.

My pillows were no longer fluffy, my floors were no longer spotless, my special chocolates were no longer in my pretty box waiting for me when I got home and my dog ... my dog went from a pampered pooch to officially traumatized and living under my bed.

My girlfriends and I, who only 6 months ago had been crying about how much we missed our babies, well, today, after two months of quarantine, are ready to send our babies packing!

There are many lessons to be learned from Corona, but for us almost “empty nesters,” I think it was God’s way of telling us to be careful what we wished for.

Our babies could actually come back to stay!
GATELEY, Sherry
Sherry Gateley, age 64 of Smyrna, Tennessee, passed away May 13, 2020. A funeral service was held May 17 at Sellars Funeral Home in Mt. Juliet, and interment followed at Mt. Juliet Memorial Gardens.

“IT is a great honor to be named Director of the Year for the Tennessee School Nutrition Association,” said Turner. “There are so many deserving directors across the state, so I am proud to be chosen,” said Turner. “I work with such an amazing group of managers, ladies and men out in the cafeterias — without them this would not be possible. A special thanks to my office staff, supervisors and maintenance men for all they do, day in and day out — they are the best of the best. No one knows the work that goes on in the background to make a department of this size come together and run like a well-oiled machine. We are definitely a team and I dedicate this honor to them.”
