Dunkin Donuts officials said they were concerned about the additional traffic that would be generated by the new location on the Westside of town. The planning commission agreed to recommend that a traffic study be conducted before any construction on this project began. Residents opposing the new Dunkin Donuts location cited concerns about additional traffic and the potential impact on local businesses. The commission agreed to consider this recommendation in their final decision.
Rep. Susan Lynn responds to opponents challenge regarding Durham investigation

According to insurance officials,Jud Ware of THW Insurance in Lebanon, this year the county recorded a significant amount of savings in paid claims, compared to last year.

As of this year, last month the county has saved over $1 million in paid claims, compared to last year.

The County was recognized to have spent $1,088,155 million less in claims over the current fiscal year.

In discussions with TDEC, it appears this will be approved for the bridge in twelve months or less," stated Mark Taylor, Boyle Engineer was approving the bridge. The former engineer was approving the removal of the bridge. The former engineer was approving the removal of the bridge.

Maynard mentioned that the majority of sav- ings is to most likely come from different net- work solutions, which would further result in lower costs.

After the court’s proved, Rep. Jeremy Durham had sexually harassed young wom- en and interns during his time of office, Dem- ocratic Candidate, Tri- sha Farmer, challenged Republican State Repre- sentative, Susan Lynn, to confront him about the situation regarding Republican leadership’s failure to hold Durham accountable for his actions.

Rep. Lynn respond- ed back to Farmer comment- ing that everyone is aware of Durham’s ac- tions and they are unac- ceptable.

She also stated that the district is ever- watching Republican and that the candidate could likely win his dis- trict’s vote and return to Capitol Hill next election if not acted on vigorously.

“Durham can be ex- pelled only one time and at the current time he is involved in a primary election”, said Lynn.

Lynn continued, “If he expelled him right now before his primary, and he wins the primary, we can never expel him again if elected in No- vember.”

The committee took the attorney general’s advice of deferring the idea of expelling Durham until the election is over.

The body could then act on the decision and have that one-time opportuni- ty still available in case Durham does win his District once again and over throw the possible opportunity of him con- tinuing the disturbing actions without conse- quence.

Sherriffs Office in support of the Long family during this difficult time. Many in the community have heard the news and are asking how they can help the family. A memorial donation fund has been established for MJFDS & FDLJ communication supervi- sorn’s son at Wilson Bank & Trust, at all locations, and are able to accept donations under the name of “Deputy Long”. Many of us who have children are affected by this disaster, we want whether the Long family or not. We feel and hurt for them and with them during this tragic time of loss. During the opening of the Board of Commis- sioners meeting in Mt. Juliet Monday night, district commissioners joined in with Commis- sioner, Ray Justice, in mourning with the fam- ily after the learning of this tragic news. Commissioner Jus- tice said, “I can’t imag- ine what the Long family is going through at this time”. Justice emotionally continued, “if you have children, go home and hug them tonight.” City Manager, Kenny Martin, also mentioned the Long family in the opening prayer of the Commission meeting telling the community to keep the family in their prayers. As a close-knit com- munity in Wilson County and Mt. Juliet, please remember to keep this family in your prayers and open your hearts to them during this difficult time.

Many walked away with new haircuts for the new school year quickly approaching, groceries of food to last some families up to 2 weeks, school supplies, and better yet, smiles on their faces.

Election Day August 4th

Life Assembly Church in Mt. Juliet, located off of Pleasant Grove Road, set aside a day of giving to families of school-aged children in the community last Saturday, July 23rd.

As the new school year quickly approaches, Julie Wharton, wife of Pastor Andrew Wharton at Life Assembly Church, put together a benefit for local families in the community providing groceries, free haircuts for school-attending children, and school supplies to those in need.

Almost a third of the County’s students are on lunch plans for free or reduced lunches.

Wharton saw the need to put this event together quickly, as the school year is already upon families once again.

With some unable to fully provide and in need of assistance, Wharton saw an opportunity to provide, and there’s no better way to provide than from the local community.
